Heather Talbert
LDC Executive Director
ACEC
1015 15th St., NW, 8th Floor
Washington, DC 20005-2605

ACEC membership is available through one of 51 state and regional councils, called Member Organizations (MOs), which provide additional benefits at the local level. Dues vary based upon the size of the firm. Membership eligibility requirements may vary within each MO. At any price, the ACEC dues investment doesn't cost – it pays – delivering greater returns each and every day.

For more information about ACEC programs and services, or for contact information on your state Member Organization, visit the Council's website at www.acec.org, or call ACEC at 202.347.7474, and ask for the Membership Department.

More information about LDC can be found at www.acec.org/ldc, or call 202.347.7474 and ask for Heather Talbert.

Is Your Firm Into Land Development?

Then You Should Be
Into ACEC and the Land Development
Coalition
(LDC)

The Land Development Coalition (LDC) is one of ACEC's advocacy and information committees created to address the unique business needs of land development firms, helping firms succeed, today and into the future.

The LDC strengthens the business environment and image of member firms, focusing on quality professional land use services in a competitive global marketplace, provides an outlet that address the special needs of your firm and is a forum for confronting issues that impact your firm.

LDC sponsors seminars at the ACEC Annual and Fall Conferences tailored to meet the needs of the land development profession that focus on improving your bottom line. Every LDC sponsored event, presents an opportunity to hear and learn from experts in the field with experience at making profitability a high priority.

ACEC and LDC help Land Development firms and firms that deal with land development issues...

Strengthen their bottom line

ACEC has worked with Congress to help you prevent costly litigation and uncertainty as a result of conflicting interpretations of the Fair Labor Standards Act (FLSA). Learn how by becoming a member.

ACEC is helping to protect firms against frivolous lawsuits by promoting tort reform. Learn how by becoming a member.

Benefit from lower rates on a range of business services, including life/health insurance, professional liability insurance, 401k retirement programs, publications, office supplies, car rental, overnight delivery and credit card services allowing you to deliver more cost effective professional services.

Contract Directly with Owners

Protect your firm and your clients with contract documents tailored for engineering firms that are available at a discount to ACEC members and can be downloaded from ACEC's website day or night at www.acec.org/publications.

Land Development Coalition Goals:

- Provide business practice programs and information for land development firms;
- Develop liaison relationships with client industry associations (ex. NAHB, NAIOP, ULI, USGBC);
- Monitor and communicate with federal and regulatory agencies creating policy that affect land development activities—assist ACEC in advocacy efforts where needed;
- Monitor trends and changes in the industry to help firms maintain and enhance profitability;
- Provide a forum for firms to express their own business concerns;
- Promote ACEC and member organizations' commitment to the coalition.
